

The international competition Open Doors: Russian Scholarship Project is organized by the "Global Universities" Association in collaboration with the Ministry of Education and Science of the Russian Federation and Rossotrudnichestvo Federal Agency.

The competition is aimed at prospective applicants to Master's programs and allows winners and runner-ups to study at any Russian university, with tuition fees covered by the state, which implies a 100% discount on tuition + a governmental scholarship.

The competition is conducted online in two rounds, one involving a portfolio contest and the other - solving specially developed tasks.

In 2017, the competition is conducted in 4 subject areas: Physics, Mathematics, Computer Science and Economics.

Participation is open for all holders of Bachelor's degrees, except for Russian citizens. Participants can take part in either Russian or English language.

Winning the competition gives an opportunity to enter Master's programs without entrance exams using a single-window system, choosing the desired programs in English or Russian. The competition unites admission campaigns to 21 leading Russian universities-participants of Project 5-100 – on a single website!
